

GAMBLING EUROPE

Theater project is looking for performers!

Some are already predicting the end of the European Union, some believe it is still time to make a fresh start. And others are annoyed that it always only about the EU, while Europe is so much more. Between crepes and bliny, bureaucracy and a political shift to the right - now we take the stage and tell our version of Europe!

We are looking for young people (18-35 years) from Europe without a German passport, who are curious enough to make a theater evening with us. Linked to your biographies, you will be asked to examine, check and discuss what Europe has brought to young people and what feelings they have for Europe. How do you and your friends in other European countries see the latest developments? Is Europe going to „gamble away“ its future?

We are heisses medium: polylux, a free theater group, which since 2011 realizes professional projects with nonprofessional performers. Sometimes people with disabilities are on the stage, sometimes big women tell about their experiences (with this we won the Jury Prize at Bürgerbühnenfestival at the Nationaltheater Mannheim).

You have not understood it yet, but it sounds funny? Then come to our informal evening or register for the trial weekend!
